Have you ever thrown a ball with a friend? The Romans did too! But, I don't think it was the same...

The Romans made their balls out of a pig's bladder, wrapped around with leather!

attending the gladiator games and chariot races. Most of these events took place in the Colosseum, which was an outdoor stadium that could hold over 50,000 people. Here, gladiators fought to the death, Christians were fed to lions, and circus shows entertained the crowds!
